

Brenntag QSHE Policy

We feel responsible for every employee, our partners and the world around us, fostering a sustainable future, caring for human needs, health and safety.

We shape the future of our industry by empowering our partners within networks, connecting with knowledge, products and innovations, driving collaboration, excellence and shared success.

Our ambition is to go beyond expectations and consistently provide excellence, guided by authenticity and commitment, trust in relationships and putting safety first in everything we do.

All aspects of our business are embedded in a culture of safety; legal, product, process and information safety, and above all Occupational Safety and Health and environmental protection.

In order to ensure safety and achieve common goals, we identify and estimate risks, and then minimize them by:

- identifying and meeting legal requirements,
- implementing best industry standards and management systems,
- implementation and improvement of the HACCP system as well as food and feed safety systems/standards,
- following the standards of Good Distribution Practice for active substances in pharmaceutical products,
- following AIPS - Asset Integrity & Process Safety management program, focusing on reducing operational risk,
- implementation of the guidelines of the Responsible Care Management System,
- supply chain monitoring,
- improvement of all processes in the organization,
- increasing awareness and involvement in building a safety culture.

We pursue a transparent information policy, presenting our goals, commitments and effects for a sustainable future to our stakeholders.
